FIRE RAGES THROUGH 55-gallon Hess Oil Co. oil tank at Perth Amboy, N. J., Friday. (AP Wirephoto)

Fire Turns Waters Into Flaming River

PERTH AMBOY, N. J. (AP) — Fire raced through a water front oil depot Friday, touching off four big petroleum storage tanks and briefly turning the waters of Arthur Kill into a river of flame between New Jersey and Staten Island.

Forty thousand gallons of oil products went up, setting off like a string of firecrackers an additional 600 petroleum drums. Explosions rocketed some of the 55 gallon drums across the narrow New York Harbor strait.

Others fell into the narrow kill between Perth Amboy and the tip of Staten Island.

FIVE INJURED

At least five persons were reported injured, one critically. It was the second petroleum fire and explosion in three weeks in the world's busiest harbor. A blazing naphtha-fed tanker collision June 16 claimed 33 lives at the entrance to New York Bay.

Harold Gast, a petroleum company executive, said the latest fire broke out in a drum-loading area where oil products are placed on barges after being transferred from refineries.

"We don't know what caused the fire," he added, speculating that it might have some connection with a current, severe heat wave.

The 14-acre storage area is about 200 yards from the edge of Arthur Kill, which runs from Newark Bay into Raritan Bay along the west shore of Staten Island.

Flames were borne on the water of the channel and touched off a brush fire on Staten Island. As a precaution, some homes in the area were evacuated.

Perth Amboy Fire Chief Paul Jankovich set the time of the outbreak of fire at 3:38 p.m. He said it was brought under control at 5:40 p.m.

"It was quite a fire... but it's pretty well quieted down now," said J. O. Delaney of the adjacent California Oil Co. He added: "Right now it looks like they are getting it under control. Flames were several hundred feet up in the air."

At 6:30 p.m., the Coast Guard reported the fire was confined to the Hess Piers and to two

Nine Cubans Hijack Plane, Seek Asylum

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Nine defecting Cubans — including a woman and three children — hijacked a Cuban crop-dusting plane Thursday and forced it to land in Jamaica, police reported Friday.

They said the Cubans disarmed the pilot, ordered him to fly to Jamaica and shot a guard who resisted. The Cubans asked political asylum.

CONFIRMATION

Word of the hijacking was confirmed as a Cuban airman landed at La Palisades Airport to take home the plane's crew.

There was no immediate explanation of how the defecting came to be aboard the crop-dusting plane. The plane landed at Vernam Field, a former U.S. Air Force base about 30 miles southwest of Kingston.

Police said the Cubans were held in protective custody and would be dealt with "in the normal fashion." They said the nine must satisfy immigration authorities their case is genuine.

Police gave this sketchy account of the hijacking:

The defecting seized control of the craft when it was on a crop-spraying mission. When the guard, Elucido Torres, 18, resisted, he was shot in a shoulder with the pilot's gun. The rest of the crew was tied up. After the plane landed, the refugees and crew made their way to main road where they were picked up by a passing truck and taken to police.

Torres was flown by helicopter to University College Hospital. Newsmen were refused permission to see him.

A group of Cuban officials was aboard the airliner that arrived to return the crew. Included were 10 officials of the Cuban Institute of Agriculture, members of the Cuban air force and a doctor. They planned to spend the night in Kingston at the Cuban consul's residence.

Twin Birthdays

Two Monroe twins, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Paylor Jr., will observe their 20th birthdays Sunday. "It's to be our first birthday apart," said one of the twins, Mrs. Marilyn Rae Bullock. Her twin sister, Miss Carolyn Kay Paylor will return today to Carroll's Ridge College at Paragould, Ark.

Warplanes Bomb More Oil Areas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American warplanes struck two more petroleum areas in North Viet Nam on Friday, a U.S. military spokesman reported today. He said the new raids were 30 to 40 miles from Hanoi.

One was near a rail line northeast of the North Vietnamese capital and the other in the Red River Valley area northwest of Hanoi. These are the two main lines into Hanoi.

Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs made the attacks, he said.

3 SHOT DOWN

Peking claimed three U.S. planes were shot down Friday.

With U.S. airpower holding the spotlight, South Viet Nam's chief of state advanced the idea Friday of a ground attack on the Communist North to help wind up the war. He didn't say whether allied troops would be expected to join the offensive.

"In order to finish the war, we should envisage the destruction of the enemy's installations," Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu told young Vietnamese officers graduating from the Thu Duc military school.

"We should include in this a ground attack against North Viet Nam, which is not impossible. The landing of troops on enemy territory will be carried out if necessary in our self-defense to force the invader to stop his plan of action (for conquest of all Southeast Asia) and to preserve peace for the entire world."

American authorities had no formal comment on the remarks by the normally inconspicuous figurehead of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government, but Washington's private reaction was distinctly cool. There was no indication U.S. officials — committed to a policy of limited war aims that excludes destruction of North Viet Nam — were giving the suggestion any serious consideration.

Attacks thus far on North Viet Nam have been by air strikes, recently intensified. The U.S. Command reported that in a day of furious action Thursday, U.S. fighter-bombers:

— Just about finished destruction of Haiphong's fuel depot, among other things wrecking the two pumping stations that sucked oil from tankers for storage at that installation two miles from the heart of the major North Vietnamese port.

— Knocked out four torpedo boats in a fight 30 miles southeast of Haiphong, sinking two, heavily damaging another and leaving the fourth beached and burning.

— Blasted a missile site 20 miles northeast of Haiphong and two oil dumps, one 35 miles north of Hanoi and the other 43 miles southeast of Vinh. Pilots were also reported to have destroyed 26 boxcars, damaged 48 and cut tracks in 28 places in the campaign to check the transport of war supplies.

Spokesmen announced a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down by anti-aircraft fire 90 miles northwest of Hanoi and the pilot was listed as missing. They had disclosed earlier that a Navy A4 Skyhawk was lost in the raid on the Haiphong depot.

The pilot of the Skyhawk, plucked uninjured from the Gulf of Tonkin by a helicopter, was identified as Lt. Cmdr. William J. Isenhour of Lemoore, Calif.

Against the American acknowledgement of the destruction of two planes, Peking's New China News Agency declared in a Hanoi dispatch that 10 were shot down that day. The agency said an unmanned, high-altitude reconnaissance plane was knocked down as it flew over Hanoi Friday.

State Department press officer Marshall Wright read a prepared statement Friday in response to a peace proposal from the Indian prime minister, Indira Gandhi.

She called for a truce and a settlement based on withdrawal of all troops from Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, the former Indochina states, he assured of neutral and sovereign independence.

Her proposal was submitted to the State Department one week ago by Ambassador B.K. Nehru.

"We welcome Prime Minister Gandhi's call for a conference as we welcome all initiatives that might lead to an honorable peace in Viet Nam," the State Department spokesman said.

"We have long supported the reconvening of the Geneva conference to bring about a settlement on the basis of the Geneva accords of 1954 and 1962."

"That settlement must assure to the people of Viet Nam the opportunity to determine their own future without outside interference."

"A cessation of hostilities in both North and South Viet Nam could be the first order of business of a reconvened Geneva conference."

Airlines Strike Puts U.S. Back Into Tempo Of Past: Peace Talks Begin Today

Government Asks Sides For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government summoned both sides to resume talks today aimed at ending the tieup of five major airlines, but a key union source predicted, "The strike will last more or less indefinitely."

Acting under instructions from President Johnson, the Labor Department called for renewal of the contract negotiations whose breakdown led to a walkout by machinists union members Friday morning.

The strike by the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists shut down Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United Airlines. In all, they carry an estimated 60 per cent of the nation's air passengers.

LENGTHY TIEUP

While United was accepting some reservations for Monday, there was no other sign from the carriers to contradict the prediction of a lengthy tieup made by Joseph W. Ramsey, vice president for airlines and railroads of the Machinists.

Ramsey told newsmen the union will continue to seek a settlement, but he said the union is "not prepared to go into marathon bargaining sessions that would weaken our position."

He said the airlines and a presidential emergency board which sought vainly to achieve a settlement failed to realize that the Machinists "went along with the employers during their lean years" and now should share some of their prosperity.

The Defense Department took steps to assure that the tieup will not interfere with essential travel by an estimated 100,000 military and civilian personnel about to leave for, or just returned from, duty in Viet Nam and nearby areas.

Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance directed that military aircraft be made available on a priority basis, and added: "I expect that we can meet this requirement with available military resources."

The union had announced prior to the strike that its members would continue to work on defense-chartered flights, and Vance said he has assurances from both the carriers and the union that essential traffic will be moved.

Both Vance and Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said steps have been taken to see that there are no undue delays in transporting mail to servicemen in South Viet Nam.

O'Brien acknowledged, however, that some serious delays in mail movement in this country are inevitable as long as the strike continues.

Mother Given Electric Chair

GENEVA, Ill. (AP) — A woman was sentenced to death in the electric chair Friday for the fatal beating of a 20-month-old niece she planned to adopt.

Judge John S. Petersen of Circuit Court sentenced Mrs. Earl Crews, 34, of Carpentersville. She was convicted June 29.

Mrs. Crews was scheduled to legally adopt the child the day the girl was killed, police said. Police said Lisa was Mrs. Crews' niece.

Life Pill Peddler

Police Arrest 'Martian'

ROME (AP) — A man who calls himself Cai-Re-Nos and says he is a Martian has been charged with fraud for selling purported 300-years-of-life pills in a midnight rendezvous in St. Peter's Square, police reported Friday.

They booked him as Patrizio Rinnaso, 23, a law student who apparently hadn't yet studied the code on fanciful deals by telephone.

Police gave this account: Late last month Fernando Russo, lawyer of the Italian Supreme Court and former teacher of the history of art, began receiving nocturnal phone calls from a wheezy voiced caller who said in broken syllables:

"I am from the planet you call Mars. We call it M-Ser. I am Cai-Re-Nos. My spaceship crashed in the Apennines on my way home from a visit to Venus and other planets of the Astral Confederation."

After several calls, Cai-Re-Nos made an appointment to meet Prof. Russo at the obelisk in St. Peter's Square at midnight June 26. Russo was to bring along $35 in assorted Italian currency. Cai-Re-Nos said he wanted it to take home and complete the Martian collection of money from various planets.

Russo kept the appointment. Cai-Re-Nos showed up in a dark outfit with heavy pilot's goggles and a white neckerchief. But he was wary and ducked behind the colonnades in front of St.

Peter's Basilica and sped off in a car.

He tried again, though. Two nights later he arranged to meet Russo again at midnight in St. Peter's Square.

This time the professor was to bring along a diamond ring, which the Martians needed for mineralogical study. In exchange he would receive a pill that would give him 300 years of life. Russo arrived with a diamond ring — imitation, just to be on the safe side. Cai-Re-Nos handed him what appeared to be a few aspirin tablets.

Then police, notified of it all in advance by Russo, took the perpetual-youth peddler into custody.

The charges: fraud, molesting and disturbing by telephone.

Louisiana Suit

Plea Asks U.S. Panel For Redistrict Hearing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A three-judge federal panel was asked Friday to hold a new hearing as soon as possible on a suit to reapportion the Louisiana Legislature.

A. J. Graffagnio, attorney for Charles Spencer, a former president of the Jefferson Parish Council, said the legislature had rejected the opportunity to do the job itself, and the court might as well get on with it.

A hearing was set for July 29. At the same time, another long-pending lawsuit for reapportionment was consolidated with the Spencer suit and set for hearing at the same time. This suit, for reapportionment of the Senate, was filed in 1963 in behalf of Leslie H. Bannister by attorneys Jules Mollere and Frank V. Zaccaria. Defendants were the then Gov. Jimmie H. Davis and others.

ACTION WITHHELD

The three judge panel, in a previous hearing on the Spencer suit, had withheld action, but with the warning that if the next legislative session failed to act the court would step in.

The legislature killed a Senate reapportionment plan in the final hours of its 60-day session. No plan for redistricting the House — also ordered by the court — was considered.

Spencer accused Gov. John J. McKeithen of failing to assert leadership on the reapportionment issue.

The legislature's failure to agree on the issue was "just ridiculous," he added, and a special session on it would be a waste of taxpayer money.

The court gave the legislature a clear mandate that it must reapportion on the basis of the Supreme Court's "One Man, One Vote" ruling, but the legislators

McKeithen Not To Call Session

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gov. John J. McKeithen said here Friday that he has no plans to call a special session of the legislature.

Speculation on a special session arose after the legislature failed to act on reapportionment under a federal court mandate to the regular session.

"I gave them all the leadership I could," McKeithen told newsmen. "Reapportionment was something the legislature had to face up to itself."

McKeithen flew into New Orleans from the governors' conference in Los Angeles. He said he had not had a chance to evaluate the closing days of the legislature, which came during his absence.

Among the major accomplishments, McKeithen said, were redistricting of the congressional districts and revamping of the state insurance laws.

Mercury Hits 95-Degree Mark

The high temperature Friday of 95 continued the hot trend now being experienced in the area. Low Friday was 77.

Partly cloudy skies and warm weather will prevail today and Sunday. High today will be 90 to 95 with low tonight at 70 to 75. Variable winds will be 5 to 15 mph.

The rainfall prediction still says 30 to 40 per cent possibilities. If any rainfall does occur, it will be widely scattered and of little consequence.

Rift Grounds 60 Per Cent Of Airplanes

NEW YORK (AP) — A nation keenly attuned to the thunder and speed of the jet age found itself suddenly face to face Friday with the lumbering transit tempo of its past. Sixty per cent of U.S. passenger planes were grounded by a mechanics strike against five major airlines.

"The strike will last more or less indefinitely," was the word from union strike headquarters in Washington for 150,000 stranded air travelers, their ranks growing by the hour. Viet Nam veterans were among them.

AIR TRAFFIC THINS

As airborne traffic thinned along crowded skyways, high above cities and hamlets, only one slender thread of transcontinental air service linked the East Coast with the West Coast. There was only one direct air route between the populous eastern seaboard and Florida's sand and sun resorts.

Effects of the strike spread far afield to foreign shores — Bermuda, Canada, Mexico, Europe and the Orient.

Passengers winged westbound across the broad Atlantic without a hitch, only to find themselves marooned at New York's Kennedy Airport because their connections with domestic airlines fell through.

Said one of these, Thomas H. Kneebone, flying with his family from England to Ottawa, Canada: "Well, you know, we're English. We take things philosophically and are not easily annoyed."

His was a single voice of sweet reasonableness in a maelstrom of chaos that hit airline terminals all across the country.

"You name it and we don't have it," one airline agent told passengers at Kennedy.

Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus R. Vance in Washington ordered military aircraft aloft on a priority basis to move military personnel on leave, destined for or coming from Viet Nam.

In Los Angeles, 150 Marines coming home from the jungles of Viet Nam were stranded. One of them was an emergency funeral to see a dying sister in Puerto Rico.

A lot of standby passengers are going to stage a mass sleeping-in at the airport without wanting to," said a spokesman at Los Angeles' International Airport, as he surveyed the hopeless tieup.

Briefly, the nation's moon launch area at Cape Kennedy, Fla., skipped a beat as airline pickets showed up at space center entrances. But at the request of the federal government, they later withdrew from all but one gate.

Business, vacation and travel plans, months in the making, were upset for an average 150,000 daily passengers on one of the week's busiest travel days, at the peak of a record summer travel period.

In such important airline hubs as San Francisco, Seattle, Denver, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, New York, Boston, Washington and Philadelphia, the shutdown of struck airline ticket counters set off a tidal wave of stranded passengers that inundated nonstruck carriers.

"We're busy as hell," said a harassed Buffalo, N.Y., spokesman for American Airlines, the major domestic line still in operation.

Many seasoned air travelers reverted to buses and trains, moving backward in time to a fading era of more leisurely transport that preceded the air age in America.

YOICHI HIRAOKA

Concert Set By Ensemble From Japan

The Hiraoka Chamber Ensemble, direct from Japan for its first tour of the United States, will be presented in concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Howard Auditorium on the Louisiana Tech campus, Ruston.

The ensemble has performed in Japan for five years and during its current tour of the United States has appeared with such leading orchestras as the New York Philharmonic and the Minneapolis Symphony.

Xylophone virtuoso Yoichi Hiraoka, who heads the ensemble, was born in Iiyogo Prefecture, Japan. He learned to play xylophone at an early age, after deciding against a career as a pianist.

Hiraoka graduated from the Keio University in Tokyo. He came to the United States to pursue a career as a concert xylophonist. In America, he was brought to the attention of the National Broadcasting Company directors and was signed by them to an exclusive contract. He played on more than 4,000 radio broadcasts during the 1930s, and gave a Town Hall recital in 1936.

Following World War II, Hiraoka toured Asia, giving more than 80 concerts annually. He returned to the United States in 1962 to give a Carnegie Hall concert, sponsored by friends of the New York Philharmonic.

In a recent interview with music critic Irving Kolodin, Hiraoka said his ambition is to live in the United States with his American-born wife and rear their children in America.

Accompanying Hiraoka will be three Japanese artists, a pianist, a violinist and a cellist. This Tuesday concert will be the final attraction of the LTCA season.

Tentative Allotments Of Tax Set

Government officials Friday in the parish began to make tentative allotments of their slice of the Fifth District sales tax revenue if it is voted by the people.

West Monroe Mayor Bert Hatton saw the $246,000 projected for his town as a partial solution to a "certain weakness" in the salary structure.

T. W. Humphries, president of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury, found a "terrific need" in the parish's fledgling fire department, both in salaries and in equipment. The parish take from the tax is estimated at $129,000.

Sterlington Mayor Marvin Brantley saw primary need for his portion of about $13,000 in street and drainage improvements. Secondary projects were work on the town hall and the volunteer fire station.

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard has earmarked his portion for salary raises for all city employees. Monroe's share is estimated at $966,000, but the figure is expected to be less by Howard.

Hall Street Exit Not To Be Open Soon

The Hall Street exit from Interstate Hwy. 20 in Monroe will remain closed to traffic until work on U.S. Hwy. 165 and I-20 is completed to Nutland Road, according to Jimmy Moore, vice chairman of the State Highway Board.

Moore said that opening the exit, which bars traffic from turning south, would create confusion among motorists not familiar with the city.

Work on the remaining stretch should be completed by Oct. 1, he said. The Hall exit would then be so marked that it will be opened to local traffic while through-traffic flow would not be hampered.

Man Booked For Theft By Check

Monroe police booked Earnest Compton, 24, of 811 S. 1st St., for theft by check late Friday morning.

In other action, A. J. Franklin, 40, of 117 Breard's Alley, was booked by Monroe police on a charge of aggravated battery.

Police officers reported that Hugh Whitfield, 43, of 409 Drago St., West Monroe, said that Franklin had stabbed him in an incident in the 200 block of N. 14th St. at about 11:35 p.m. Thursday. Whitfield was taken to E. A. Conway Memorial where he was treated and released.

West Monroe officers booked two persons on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages Thursday night and Friday morning. They were Pamela L. Rose, 22, of Bastrop, arrested at 208 Hood St., at 11:43 a.m. Friday morning, and Edgar F. Greer, 57, of Shreveport, arrested at the intersection of N. 7th and Cypress Streets at 11:10 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Roberts was taken to Glenwood Hospital by a Kilpatrick's ambulance where she was treated and released for lacerations.

According to reports of the West Monroe police department, Mrs. Roberts was in a car driven by her husband, Fred Roberts, 71, when he attempted to stop his car in the line of traffic but the brakes failed. The car jumped the curb and struck a tree.

The theft of a tire and rim from a pickup truck parked in the Eastgate Parking Lot was reported by Felton Thompson, 592 Filhol St., Friday night to Monroe police.

Monroe police booked Hosa McGee, 23, of 1808 Grammont, for simple battery at 4:30 p.m. He was apprehended on warrant at 207 N. 18th St.

TOKYO (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said Friday the main civil rights problem still facing the United States was to close the social gap between the races caused by a century of discrimination.

Wirtz told a luncheon meeting of the Foreign Correspondents Club of Japan that more civil rights progress had been made in the past two years than he had expected to see in his lifetime.

"We finally have gotten over a lot of nonsense we engaged in for the past century, something which is not a matter of pride," he added.

"The main problem today is making up for the fallout of nearly one hundred years in education and other fields," Wirtz said.

Comedy Set At Tech's Little Theater

"The Late Christopher Bean," a sardonic comedy based on a French play by Rene Fauchois, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in the Little Theater at Louisiana Tech.

The thesis production is being directed by Mrs. Frances S. Franklin under the supervision of Arthur Stone, associate professor of speech at the institute.

The French version of the play, titled "Prenez Garde a la Peinture," had a successful run in Paris and much of its sardonic comedy was at the expense of the Provincial Frenchman. The play also enjoyed a successful run on the London stage in a version by Emlyn Williams under the new title. The London play also utilized the locale of the provincial for its ironic humor.

In the American version of the play, the setting has been changed to New England and the play derives its pointed satire at the expense of Yankee cupidity, although it points out that the country boy can at times be shrewd. The play, Mrs. Franklin said, is in no sense a regional study. "It is a classic of modern comedy," she said, "because it transcends mere fun to an acid and searching criticism of human nature."

Cast includes John Brownlee, 1966 winner of the Shreveport Times best Actor Award, in the role of Dr. Haggerty; June Cocke as Abby; Ann McCain as Mrs. Haggerty; Mimi Yeates as Ada; Ann Atkins as Susan; Ralph Self as Rosen; Alton Franklin as Warren; Ed Burton Widener as Davenport; and Hugh Durden as Tallant.

McNamara Ends Logistics Talks

HONOLULU (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has concluded top secret war talks with Pacific military commanders in an attempt to solve the problem of supplying American troops in Viet Nam.

With 273,000 U.S. servicemen now engaged in the war in South Viet Nam, McNamara discussed the huge supply problem throughout the day Thursday with Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific military commander, and members of Sharp's staff.

Sharp said earlier this week following his meeting in Saigon with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, that there are enough fighting men in Viet Nam to rout Communist forces.

But the problem of keeping these men adequately equipped brought McNamara to Honolulu with two logistics experts and supply officer from Washington. During their sessions behind closed doors, McNamara and the military men discussed ways of getting the supplies through South Viet Nam's inadequate port facilities. A spokesman for the military said in Honolulu that logistics became a "tremendous" problem when so many men were sent into an underdeveloped country.

The two logistics specialists with McNamara at the eight-hour meeting were Paul R. Ignatius, a civilian, and Maj. Gen. Allen T. Swanwick-Hay, Lt. Gen. R.D. Meyer, a supply director, also was with him.

Sharp brought with him from Saigon the latest estimate of progress since the United States began destroying Communist fuel tankage in the vicinity of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Court Bars Need To List Organizations

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—A federal court has barred the State College Board from requiring college teachers to list organizations of which they are members.

U.S. Dist. Judge Clayde Clayton of Tupelo issued the ruling overturning the 1956 Mississippi law requiring annual affidavits of memberships from college faculty members.

The ruling came in a suit filed by 24 professors from six state supported colleges. All are members of the American Association of University professors.

Dr. Russell Barrett, a political science professor at the University of Mississippi, said the group had fought the law for 10 years, "but we finally had to resort to the courts."

U.S., India, Britain Open Diplomatic Peace Front

VATICAN CITY (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg conferred with Pope Paul VI Friday and Vatican sources said they undoubtedly talked about the stepped up air raids on North Viet Nam. The Vatican has criticized the bombings as damaging to U.S. foreign policy.

As the two talked for 50 minutes, Britain and India pressed ahead with their campaign to bring on a truce in Viet Nam to be followed by peace talks.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson met in London with Premier Georges Pompidou of France, who seemed to cast doubt on Wilson's chances of success in his trip to Moscow next week to urge a peace conference at Geneva.

In the present atmosphere and in the light of recent developments, we do not think it would be convenient to call a conference at the present time," Pompidou told reporters before meeting with Wilson. As a sign of the Geneva agreement of more than an hour with President Indira Gandhi of India met for talks in New Delhi Thursday, it calls for a halt to U.S. bombings, a truce, and a peace conference with the Vietnamese war.

She flies to Yugoslavia Sunday for talks with President Tito before going on to Moscow. In Washington, administrative sources said no special U.S. diplomatic peace offensive is being mounted, but the United States stands ready to talk at any time. President Johnson has endorsed Wilson's trip to Moscow. Afterward, Wilson will go to Washington for talks with Johnson July 29.

No Joke About Gold

Twenty years ago there was a jest that gold is a mysterious yellow metal that is dug out of the ground in order that it can be put back again into the earth at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

There were a lot of gags about that buried gold that got laughs in 1946 when the United States gold stock was $24,600,000,000. Nobody has been laughing about it in recent years. Instead there has been continuous serious news about the jostle of gold bullion bars against each other as they move from United States control to that of foreign creditor nations.

Last week the nation's monetary gold stock was down to $13,434,000,000, its lowest level since September 14, 1938. In the two decades since 1946, the dip has been $11,166,000,000. Most of it actually has been in the last decade. In 1957, after the Suez crisis, we had $22,800,000,000 in gold supply. The drop since this time last year has been $759,000,000.

As most people understand, because of the persistent deficits we are running year after year in balance of payments, foreign creditors have built up large dollar claims against the United States which they can convert into gold anytime they wish.

Gold demand by foreign claimants in any year seldom has equalled the balance of payments deficit. Thus the United States Treasury near the end of June had only $13,434,000,000 in gold, to redeem foreign claims of more than $29,000,000,000.

Few, of course, call the present situation a "crisis," but it is a nagging problem and there is a growing belief that some very stern measures to plug the gold drain will in time have to be taken.

The balance - of - payments problem - created by the gap between funds entering the country and funds leaving - had its start in 1947. In every year since, except in 1957, when there were massive shipments of oil abroad because of the Suez crisis, there has been a chronic deficit in the balance.

Between 1958 and 1964 there was an average deficit of $3,000,000,000 annually. In 1965, it was reduced to $1,300,000,000. But this year the deficit is again deepening substantially.

There is every evidence that, for the present, the Administration expects to rely on existing mild programs to meet the problem as best as possible. There is a continued feeling in the Administration that acceptance of another such deficit might do less harm than any remedy that has been proposed.

There has been no change in the Administration's goal, expressed by Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, "to achieve equilibrium - sustained equilibrium" in the balance of payments, but Fowler has said that substantial improvement would be impossible until after the Viet Nam War. "Equilibrium," in the Administration view, means outright balance or a surplus or deficit of not more than $250,000,000 annually.

Some statements of Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor have been taken to mean that he is more disturbed about the situation than Secretary Fowler appears to be.

Some members of Congress, notably Senator Stuart Symington, Democrat, Missouri, continue to express deep concern about the situation.

"The United States has now become the world's major debtor nation, owing abroad, primarily to the foreign central banks, over $29,000,000,000 in liquid liability; with its gold stock now standing at less than $13,500,000,000," Symington said in a Senate speech.

"Our gold reserves continue to dwindle, mostly to Europe; and current U. S. Government liabilities redeemable in gold and owned abroad, continue to increase. If our policies and programs continue to necessitate their heavy price, and our 17-year unfavorable balance of payments continues unfavorable, there must be a reckoning in the not too distant future."

Symington said that year after year since 1946 the United States has expended an average of over $8,000,000,000 abroad annually for foreign aid and military support payments. He advocated a reduction of the Armed Forces maintained in Europe.

"Every American should realize that every deficit dollar spent on the United States military presence in Europe either results in an immediate loss of our limited gold supply or a borrowing from our European friends," he said.

The Administration believes that a pull back of troops in Europe would have international political repercussions that it does not want to risk. Also foreign aid is to be increased instead of cut back. In Administration opinion, many of the suggested solutions offered in Congress or by private organizations, such as those presented by the International Economic Policy Association, could do grave damage. However, Senator Symington as well as Senator Mike Mansfield, the Democratic Senate Leader and Senator Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican Senate Leader, were greatly impressed by the IEPA suggestions.

The first quarter of 1966 balance of payments showed a deficit of $582,000,000,000, which would be an annual rate of $2,300,000,000. It will be perhaps six weeks before situation in the second quarter, which ended June 30, will be known. If it shows no improvement there will be increased Congressional demand for solutions, which are not going to be easy to find.

The charges against the Senator are in three general parts. Concerning parts two (petty favors from petty and not-so-petty merchants) and three (using campaign contributions for general personal expenses), I shall be writing in due course, after all the evidence is in. Concerning the first part, a slavish and dishonorable relationship with General Julius Klein, it seems to me that the evidence is pretty well in hand, and that the verdict is to the effect that General Klein is a very talented and slightly impossible human being, and probably the most important figure in the history of public relations, which is hardly a matter of national concern.

I have never met General Klein, and therefore hasten to admit that there must be something about the gentleman which grips otherwise normal people, causing them, whether out of pure or condescending affection for him, to endure, and even take a little amusement from, his untoward bumptiousness. General Klein is a war hero who rose in the postwar period to the post of commander of the Jewish War Veterans. He set up his own PR agency, specializing in representing West German interests in this country. One would gather, from his correspondence with our most eminent legislators, that he and they grew up together in kindergarten, prep school, and college and that he was best man at every senator's wedding.

Consider, for instance, Senator Wayne Morse, with his high threshold of irritability. To Morse, General Klein is "Julius" and on February 20, 1964, he wrote to Klein to reassure him that Senator Fulbright's investigation of foreign lobbying had hurt him, counselled him on how to proceed, reminded him that he (Morse) and other senators had spoken handsomely of Klein in the course of Fulbright's hearings, and suggesting that "Stu" (Senator Symington) "would be glad to join in a visit about this matter when you return to Washington." Senator Javits began his letter of December 2, 1963, to Klein the way most senators do, namely, by apologizing for the delay in answering Klein's last half dozen letters. "As far as I am concerned," Javits said, "you certainly have not misused your long - standing friendship with

Moves To End Gold Raids

Would Require $6.58 Billion Payment

WASHINGTON — At long last a member of Congress is setting legislation in motion to put a halt to President de Gaulle's heavy raiding of this country's steadily diminishing gold reserve.

Representative Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, has introduced a joint resolution calling on President Johnson to take immediate and forceful action to require France to resume payments on its World War I debt of more than $6.58 billion.

France has made no payments on this huge obligation since 1932, when Congress voted a moratorium at the height of the worldwide depression.

In the past several years, since de Gaulle began making deep inroads on the U.S. gold reserve — largely with dollars spent by the U.S. in France for NATO defenses — various senators and representatives have voiced outraged indignation. But beyond deploring this, none offered concrete legislation.

Representative Thomson does that with his joint resolution that France be required to resume paying off its immense World War I debt, and thus put an end to de Gaulle's massive raids on our gold reserves.

IN OTHER words, Thomson wants France's surplus dollars applied to paying off its multi-billion dollar 46-year-old debt instead of draining off U.S. gold. "If France has so many extra American dollars with which to buy gold," says the former Wisconsin governor, "I think we should advise President de Gaulle to continue sending the dollars to America, but that from now on they will be applied not against our gold, but against France's long-delinquent World War I debt to our country."

As of June 1, the U.S. gold reserve had sunk to $13,582 billion — a loss of around $1.5 billion since a year ago. Most of this gold went to France — $884 million in 1965 — more than $250 million in the first six months of this year.

Sauce for the Gander — Representative Thomson bluntly contends the time has come to deal with de Gaulle on his own terms — and not as a reliable and cooperative ally.

AS AN ally, France could claim special consideration — and was given it in open-handed abundance. Following World War II, the U.S. poured more than $9.5 billion in economic and military aid into France.

But now that de Gaulle has withdrawn French forces from NATO, ordered U.S. military units out of France, is "apparently intent upon undermining the dollar," and is assiduously wooing Moscow and Peking, Thomson asserts the time is past to "extend any further favors."

The U.S. should treat de Gaulle as pragmatically as he does the U.S., and an immediately effective way of doing that is to crack down on his gold raids by demanding payment of the long-overdue World War I obligation.

"It is the sense of the Congress," says Thomson's resolution, "that the President should take such steps as may be necessary to require the Republic of France to make full and prompt settlement with respect to past due amounts (including principal and interest) of its World War I indebtedness to the United States. It is further the sense of the Congress that the President should take such additional steps as may be necessary to assure that the Republic of France will make full and timely settlement of future installments due with respect to such indebtedness."

THOMSON points out that since 1962, France has "with-drawn" $2,369 billion in gold from the U.S., including $103 million in the first quarter of this year.

"Thus, while our country is struggling to resist aggression and preserve freedom throughout the world," says Thomson, "at extreme cost and sacrifice and a heavy drain on our gold reserve, France has grown rich and prosperous from the stimulus of more than $9.5 billion in U.S. economic and military aid since 1946."

"While she refuses to make any payments on her delinquent principal and interest owing to this country from World War I, for a total of more than $6.58 billion, France has embarked on a deliberate program to destroy our gold reserve and undermine the value of the dollar. The time is long overdue to put an end to that, and to deal with de Gaulle on a strictly cold-turkey basis."

EXPENSIVE FREE-Loading — The State Department wants $1.2 million to stage an international conference on "Water for Peace" some time next year.

The money would be used to pay the expenses of some 1,200 delegates from 95 or more countries — including Russia and its Iron Curtain satellites. The party is to be held in Washington, at a still-unfixed date, and last eleven days. High on the list of entertainment is a banquet by Interior Secretary Udall, and trips about the U.S. to observe "water problems."

Maddening Aspects Of Government Now

ONE OF the most maddening aspects of the benevolent paternalism that passes for government in the United States is to be found in the bland process by which bureaucratic opinion takes on the force and effect of law.

The process pervades the whole of government everywhere. Racial integration is held to be an affirmative good, in schools, hospitals and housing developments; therefore, integration will be compelled or Federal funds will be withheld. Billboards are viewed as distasteful; therefore, under penalty of law, billboards must go. The government conceives some interest in the American bathroom; so the American citizen must answer all the bathroom questions on his census form, or the citizen will go to jail.

Nowhere in our government is this arrogance of power less restrained, or more abused, than in the Food and Drug Administration. Here is the pistic face of Big Brother, solicitous but firm, looking after our waist lines. Perhaps we ought to be grateful, but how did the FDA get control of the icebox? Who says that Big Brother knows best?

Two recent incidents are typical of the FDA's obsessive drive to impose its will, by law, on everyone else.

IN NEW York, on the complaint of the FDA, marshals recently swooped down upon the Ohswa Foundation at 317 Second Ave., and there confiscated a large quantity of "macrobiotic foods," and a large quantity of books and pamphlets on Zen cookery. Now, it is important to understand that the foods themselves were not contaminated in any way. They were not mislabeled. The barley flour was pure barley flour, the Azuke beans precisely as described: the roasted malt, soy sauce, rice cakes, millet seeds, and sesame oil were not adulterated in any way.

It was the ideas that were bad. The Zen philosophy holds that a certain diet is affirmatively good, and that certain of these foods will cure diseases ranging from apoplexy to trachoma. In the view of the FDA, and the FDA is doubtless right, dandelion root tea bags are not adequate and effective treatment for anemia, appendicitis, arthritis, burns, cancer, catarrhs, constipation, diabetes, and so on down the line. "Such diets are dangerous," says the FDA in a press release. Four persons are known to have died in New Jersey and one in California from following the Zen precepts religiously. So the food must be seized and the books condemned.

THESE are plainly value judgments. These are opinions. They may be the very best opinions, but that is all they amount to. Yet under its rule-making power, the FDA proposes to transform these opinions into binding law. Nutrients may be added to certain foods "only if they have real value." Fortified foods will become illegal "if the labeling or advertising contains any statements or pictures implying that a diet of ordinary foods will not supply adequate amounts of vitamins and minerals." The FDA says flatly that "excessive amounts of vitamins and minerals cannot be used by the body." Therefore, no man may use them.

Doubtless the Food and Nutrition Board has abundant evidence to support its view. No layman is in a position to argue, but if a man "feels good" because of a multi-vitamin tablet, or thinks he "feels energetic" from a fortified cereal, what business is this of Big Brother? A whole lot of therapy, as every physician knows is entirely in the mind. Suppose vast sums of money are squandered on useless vitamin pills? Much money is squandered on bookies and blondes in ways that may also lift the human spirit.

The most precious of all rights, Brandeis once remarked, is the right to be left alone. So one ought to chisel that morsel of stone on the portals that lead to the FDA.

WHY? In all seriousness, why? If a relative handful of Zen Buddhists think they will make it to nirvana on soybean paste, why should the Federal government say them nay? Is this a threat to the public health of such magnitude that the very idea of Zen dieting must be routed out by writs and injunctions? And if the Federal bureaucracy has power to condemn the religious diets of the Zen cultists, what of its power over the diets of orthodox Jews and Catholic monks?

The second incident is of much wider application. On June 17, the FDA laid down sweeping regulations governing the labeling and fortification of a variety of food products. Henceforth if the FDA's edict stands up in court, a few labels must appear on dietary supplements:

"Vitamins and minerals are supplied in abundant amounts by the foods we eat. The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council recommends that dietary needs be satisfied by foods. Except for persons with special medical needs, there is no scientific basis for recommending routine use of dietary supplements."

THESE are plainly value judgments. These are opinions. They may be the very best opinions, but that is all they amount to. Yet under its rule-making power, the FDA proposes to transform these opinions into binding law. Nutrients may be added to certain foods "only if they have real value." Fortified foods will become illegal "if the labeling or advertising contains any statements or pictures implying that a diet of ordinary foods will not supply adequate amounts of vitamins and minerals." The FDA says flatly that "excessive amounts of vitamins and minerals cannot be used by the body." Therefore, no man may use them.

Doubtless the Food and Nutrition Board has abundant evidence to support its view. No layman is in a position to argue, but if a man "feels good" because of a multi-vitamin tablet, or thinks he "feels energetic" from a fortified cereal, what business is this of Big Brother? Much money is squandered on bookies and blondes in ways that may also lift the human spirit.

The most precious of all rights, Brandeis once remarked, is the right to be left alone. So one ought to chisel that morsel of stone on the portals that lead to the FDA.

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Handbook To Make Money Is Unfolded

A DO-IT-yourself handbook for tomorrow's millionaires is unfolding, a chapter at a time, in the United States Senate.

The portions already available clearly explain how to turn your idle cash into a bulging bank account by going bankrupt building shoddy apartment houses that nobody wants to live in.

All you need is plenty of nerve, a head for figures and a talent for finding someone at the Federal Housing Administration who is not interested in examining your cost estimates too closely. Just follow these easy instructions:

1. Establish three corporations — a land company, a construction company and a non-profit firm to build an apartment for elderly people as a "public service." Your State government will supply the charters for a small fee. It doesn't matter if your construction company knows the difference between a nail and snail because most of the work will be done by sub-contractors. If possible, form a silent partnership with an architect.

2. HAVE your land company buy 1,000 acres at — say — $200 an acre. Then have it sell 100 acres to your apartment firm at $1000 an acre.

3. Put on your best suit and most sincere expression and find a church or charitable group that expresses an interest in sponsoring an apartment for the elderly. They do not have to commit themselves to any financial responsibility.

4. Now you are ready to apply for a mortgage. You figure the actual construction cost at $5 million, plus $200,000 for the architect's blueprints plus $100,000 for the land. You should have no trouble obtaining the mortgage because under a special program designed to benefit older people, the FHA is authorized to write insurance covering 100 per cent of mortgages on this type of "non-profit" construction. Still assuming you find a friendly FHA man to work with, your mortgage will supply $5,400,000.

5. Your problems are now nearly over. Your construction company somehow erects the building and is paid $5,200,000 (cost plus builder's fee). Your apartment firm now waits for tenants to rent rooms — but it is a matter of complete indifference to you whether anyone moves in. If they flock into the apartment, you pay off the mortgage. If not, your apartment company merely defaults. The FHA pays off the bank and takes over the apartment.

6. NOW that your apartment firm is bankrupt, count up your profits. First of all, your land company cleared $800,000 by selling 100 acres to the apartment firm at grossly inflated price. Your construction company has $200,000 in builder's fees and should have made at least $25,000 or so profit on the construction. You can get $50,000 by splitting the architect's fee.

Remember, you put no money in the project aside from local fees, minor closing costs and the price of some fancy stationery. You have already cleared $355,000 and there's more to come. While the apartment is in receivership, the FHA may hire you to operate it. When the FHA comes to sell it, you may be able to buy it under another corporate name at half-price — low enough to make it commercially successful operation.

And don't forget the other 900 acres your land company still owns. The value of that land is now enhanced because there is a large apartment building next door. You can sell it at a profit or build single-unit homes which can be sold easily because the FHA will underwrite the mortgage.

7. NOW move a few hundred miles away into another FHA regional area and start all over again. The FHA has no central clearing house where it files the names of deadbeats.

Noise And Sanity

Smoggy, crowded cities have been indicted for the past decade and now another factor in metropolitan unpleasantness is getting its share of poor billing — namely, noise.

Here is what one of them says about the noisy situation: "Evidence from the commission's (New York Noise Abatement Commission) studies supposed findings that excessive noise destroys efficiency, interrupts minimum requirements of sleep, can cause deafness, severely strains the nervous system, is extremely costly, inhibits the normal development of infants, is the cause of accidents and interferes with school programs."

In the major cities, there is no escape. Time was when you could drive a short distance and be away from it all. Not so today. There's noise coming out of elevators, usually music over a scratchy PA system, police and fire sirens screaming, the din of auto horns and transistor radios, to name just a few.

In recent years steps have been taken to do something about polluted air and water. The eyesore of slums has been reduced to rubble in many instances and more pleasant dwellings erected. By no means are anti-pollution efforts and slum clearance a nationwide undertaking, however. The states dragged their feet on stream and air pollution and now the federal government has finally put its giant foot into the picture. What about noise? Will it come under state and federal regulations? It isn't likely to for some time because rules are difficult to write, the innovations in autos and airplanes would be exorbitant, and besides, Americans have learned to live with it — just as they have the backache.

One pilot project failed to get off the ground. That was the request of 90 Congressmen for $20 million for a crash program on ways to curtail jet noise. One sponsor, Representative John Wylder of New York, believes the administration will include it in next year's budget. Maybe so. But it appears that noise, for better or worse, will be with us for years to come.

Hatten, Smith Report

New Steps On School Board Issue Planned

West Monroe's mayor and the manager of its Chamber of Commerce Friday told Ouachita Parish's state representatives that "new steps are already being planned," in the wake of what the two, in a joint statement, called the legislators' failure to represent the people.

Reps. George Wood and Lawrence Gibbs were not mentioned in the statement by Mayor W. B. (Bert) Hatten and Manager Eugene Smith. The blast referred instead to the Ouachita House delegation.

"The taxpayers of Ouachita Parish lost an important fight Thursday with the defeat of Senate Bill 343 in the State House, and the only explanation is that we were not represented in the House by our elected delegation there," the statement read.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Jamar Adecock, would have removed Monroe residents from the Ouachita Parish School Board. It was defeated in the House by just six votes, with Wood among the dissenters. Gibbs, all in Monroe, was not present for the final vote.

"Any real friend of the Ouachita Parish school system and the taxpayers of Ouachita Parish should not forget," the statement continued. The problems and the issue of the overlapping school systems in Ouachita Parish will not go unsolved.

"As for what happened, we leave it to our House delegation to explain."

The statement praised Adecock for gaining Senate approval of the bill and for steering it through a House committee.

The chamber, a vocal opponent of some aspects of the dual system, has steadily campaigned for legislation to remedy what it calls representation without taxation in that Monroe residents pay no taxes for the parish system but may sit on the board.

All White Jurors Convict Two KKK

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—An all-white jury convicted two of six Ku Klux Klansmen Friday night of violating the civil rights of slain educator Lemuel Penn and other Negroes.

Their verdict against Howard Sims, 43, and Cecil Myers, 26, came after the federal court jury deliberated six hours and 15 minutes. This verdict was reached by a jury last Saturday morning but was kept secret until a jury completed the trial of three other klansmen.

Found innocent of a 1870 law against violating the civil rights of persons were George H. Turner, 34, James Lackey, 30, Herbert Guest, 39, and Denver Willis Phillips, 26.

U. S. District Judge William A. Bootle warned the crowded, but heavily guarded courtroom, against any demonstrations after the jury returned the verdict in the trial of Guest, Lackey and Phillips and the verdict in the previous trial was opened.

Bootle indicated he would sentence the two men this morning.

Bootle noted that Guest still faces sentencing under three narcotics charges and one of possessing an illegal sawed-off shotgun.

All six defendants pleaded innocent to the charges, which stemmed from the night rider slaying of Penn.

The jury got the case at 3:18 p.m. EST after an hour-long charge by Judge Bootle. Twice during the night the panel returned to the courtroom and asked for a rereading of the old law.

Maximum penalty under the law is 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Sims and Myers previously were tried for murder in state courts for the slaying of Penn, but won acquittal. Lackey was also indicted for murder, but was never brought to trial by the state after the two others were freed.

Penn, a colonel in the Army Reserve, was shot to death July 11, 1964 while driving along a Georgia highway en route to Washington from Ft. Benning, where he had undergone training as a reservist.

The keystones of the government's case were two alleged confessions that Guest and Lackey gave to the FBI following the slaying.

Bootle addressed himself to this aspect of the case in his final charge. He said that unless the jury believed the confessions were given freely and voluntarily, they should not be considered as evidence.

The defense contended the government got the confessions by holding their defendants illegally and holding out offers of monetary rewards.

But Bootle reminded the jurors that the right to travel from one state to another is "a basic right" guaranteed by the Constitution "and even in the 'Articles of Confederation,' which preceded the Constitution."

The judge instructed the jury to return separate verdicts for each defendant.

In closing arguments, federal attorneys denounced the defendants as a "bunch of cowards" whose acts were a disgrace to the state of Georgia.

Burundi Prince Takes Control Of Government

BUKAVU, the Congo (AP) — Prince Charles Ndirizeye of Burundi announced over Bujumbura radio Friday he has taken over as chief of state in that turbulent kingdom from his ailing father, King Mwambutsa IV.

Assailing politicians for "dereliction of duty, stagnation and hesitation" as well as nepotism, the 21-year-old heir to the throne suspended the constitution.

He also kicked out the government of Prime Minister Louis Biha, a trusted lieutenant of the king and in his own right a chief of the Watusi tribe. The king is a Watusi.

Whether the 61-year-old king agreed to the action of his son was unknown. The Burundi Embassy in Brussels, Belgium, said he is in Geneva. After the rival Bahuu tribe tried to stage a coup d'etat last October, the mwami — the Burundi word for king — left for Switzerland for medical treatment.

The prince's statement read over the Burundi capital radio said he had decided to take over all powers as chief of state because state authority was losing its hold.

The prince promised to form a new government but said in the meantime the secretaries of state for justice, state police and planning would run affairs.

The prince said while waiting for a new constitution he will rule by royal decree. He added he would respect all accords and treaties and would continue to cooperate with all states, following a policy of nonalignment.

Earlier this month, a Burundi attaché in Kinshasa — Leopoldville — charged the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency with having staged a plot to unseat the rulers of Burundi.

Prisoners Riot At Penitentiary

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Tawes asked James V. Bennett, retired director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, to make a thorough survey of the administrative procedures and practices of the Maryland correctional system.

Bennett agreed only to look into the work-release program of prisons in the state.

Copinger said there was "no strife between Negroes and whites" within the institution.

"The Negroes long have had complaints about so-called 'rights,'" Copinger said. "For example, one grievance is that all three members of the parole board are white. But now we have a new twist. The whites say we are showing too much favoritism to Negroes."

State Sen. Verda Welcome, a Negro, talked with inmates after order was restored.

"They named several guards as being brutal," Mrs. Welcome said. "Some of the Negro guards are the guilty parties. The prisoners had nothing but praise for Warden Copinger and Asst. Warden James Jordan."

Jordan was one of those who suffered from smoke inhalation. Copinger said he was overcome when he went to the rescue of two inmates in the burning commissary.

A riot plan was put into effect at the prison Thursday after a Negro inmate had been subdued by guards when he was not at his assigned job and resisted efforts to take him to a cell block.

"The riot had to have racial overtones," said Joseph Bullock, a member of the State House of Delegates and a member of the Committee on Prisons.

"It stems from people on the outside," Bullock said. "If they don't stop telling these prisoners about their rights it is going to get worse."

About two-thirds of the 1,461 inmates at the penitentiary are Negroes.

"The aspect of civil rights an civil disobedience outside has found its way into the prison community," said Peppersack. "All outside behavior carries over into prison. Nothing new starts in prison."

The riot was the second major incident in nine months at the maximum-security institution, located a few blocks from the heart of downtown Baltimore.

In October 1965, about 700 prisoners staged a one-day sit-down strike. Earlier this year, Franklin Brough was released as warden by Roger B. Copinger after charges that inmates were leaving the institution for unauthorized purposes.

Last month, Gov. J. Millard

Also charged in the case is Kline Leonard Cowart, 18. The two are scheduled for trial Sept. 6. River, exalted cyclops of the Baton Rouge Klavern of the United Klans of America, told officers he played a role in ousting Leteff and Cowart from the organization.

River's truck was blown up in the driveway of his residence here April 25.

Judge Fred Blanche set a hearing for next Wednesday on the defense request for more particulars about charges against Leteff.

No hearing was set immediately for the motion to throw out charges against him.

The defense seeks a separate trial for Leteff on grounds the defenses of the two men are antagonistic and a joint trial would be prejudicial to Leteff.

The reason for this, the defense claims, is that Cowart gave a confession to investigators in which he contended Leteff investigated the bombing.

In the motions to quash aggravated arson and carrying a concealed weapon charges against Leteff, the defense contends the statutes Leteff is accused of violating and the indictments based upon the statutes, are unconstitutional.

Secretary Takes Steps For Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance ordered five actions Friday to make certain that the airline strike will not disrupt essential official travel by about 100,000 service personnel and civilian workers.

Vance, acting in the absence of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara who is in Honolulu, announced the moves affecting mostly defense travel within the United States and also some overseas transportation.

A spokesman said the 100,000-passenger figure estimated for the balance of July could include troops being staged within the United States for overseas movement. The actual transport to Viet Nam normally is handled by military facilities.

"I have directed today that military aircraft be made available on a priority basis for the movement of military personnel on leave prior to or just returned from Southeast Asia duty," Vance said.

"I expect that we can meet this requirement with available military resources."

The other four steps:

A defense emergency transportation plan has been started to provide for continuation and expansion of defense-chartered flights to meet essential requirements. Vance said the unions and the five struck carriers have assured the Defense Department that essential traffic will be moved.

If space will be made available, on chartered plans for movement on military mail from inland points to coastal air terminals for overseas delivery.

"Mail to and from our men in Viet Nam will be moved expeditiously," Vance said.

The Military Airlift Command, which is responsible for overseas air transportation, will make sure that all civil air carriers live up to agreements banning work stoppages affecting military traffic.

The secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force and military commanders "have been told to report immediately any difficulties which may develop."

New Orleans Road Deaths Rate Highest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The city safety council said Friday the traffic whirl here results in more deaths than in any other American city of comparable size.

The statistical death rate: 4.4 dead per 10,000 registered vehicles during 1966 for the period ending June 1.

Aaron Mintz, chairman of the Metropolitan New Orleans Safety Council, said the rate is the highest of any city in the 500-900 to 750,000 population group.

The closest competitor for the dubious distinction was Kansas City, Mo., which had a 4.0 traffic death rate for the five-month period.

The cities with the lowest rate were Buffalo with 1.5 and Columbus, Ohio, with 1.7.

Seattle and Pittsburgh were 2.1 each; Cincinnati 2.3 Memphis 3.0 and San Diego 3.5. Mintz said no report was received from Boston and San Antonio.

On a statewide basis, Louisiana's preliminary report showed 458 traffic deaths, up 18 per cent from the 387 reported during the same period in 1965.

The report listed 292 traffic deaths for the state of Mississippi during the period, a 41 per cent increase over the 207 during the 1965 period.

King Agrees To Summit For Civil Rights Chiefs

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., endorsed Friday the idea of a summit conference of civil rights leaders, but he minimized the differences among them.

The philosophical debate that has emerged in the movement necessitates a meeting such as this, he said.

The purpose, as he defined it, would be to determine "where we go from here."

King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, spoke at a news conference on plans for a mass freedom rally in Chicago's Soldier Field and a march to City Hall on Sunday.

A Philip Randolph, union leader and pioneer in the current civil rights movement, suggested the leadership parley Thursday in New York City. He said he is concerned, among other things, by the swing toward "black power" by the Congress of Racial Equality and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Asked if the apparent fissures in the common front indicated a "fracture" of the civil rights movement, King replied: "I hope not."

But, he added, a discussion by leaders would show "we're not far apart, even in terms of methods."

The cries of "black power," he said, "grow out of the despair in the lives of many Negroes" and a feeling they have not made sufficient progress.

"The cries will grow even greater," he predicted, "unless the nonviolent movement achieves victory."

In response to another question, King said he does not believe competition for money from contributors figures in the current maneuvering by civil rights leaders.

The Sunday rally is sponsored by the SCLC, which has been working in Chicago this year, and the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, an alliance of civil rights groups.

They said they expected 100,000 persons. A march on City Hall a year ago, sponsored by the two organizations and led by King, drew more than 10,000. Chicago has a Negro population of 900,000.

King called the Sunday demonstration the start of a drive for an open city.

Demands to be affixed to the door of City Hall include: low cost housing on a widespread basis; a $2 state minimum wage; desegregation of public schools in the forthcoming

Rights Workers Facing Court

GRENADA, Miss. (AP) — Forty-three civil rights workers faced court action Friday for a sitdown demonstration in a city street.

The group was arrested about 9:30 p.m. Thursday after the demonstrators refused police orders to get out of the street.

The sitdown came when police refused to allow the group to parade through Grenada streets.

City prosecuting attorney Brad Dye said the group had given no reason for the march and had made no attempt to obtain a parade permit.

The group—41 Negroes and two whites—was scheduled to be arraigned at 4 p.m. Friday on charges of obstructing a street.

Bond was set at $100 each, but none had posted the money Friday afternoon.

Airlines Strike Brings Grim Humor To Stranded

NEW YORK (AP)—When a band, Spec. 5 Peter Hildebrandt, in Germany. She and her four children arrived in Chicago aboard a United Air Lines plane just as the strike started. They were due to board a military plane at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., at 11 p.m. Friday.

United assigned Britt Granholm of its passenger department to help the Hildebrandts catch the military plane to Europe. Within four hours after reaching Chicago they were bundled aboard an American Airlines flight for New York.

"The airline people told me that we might get stuck in Chicago," she said before leaving. "But I was on the way, and I decided I'd go. I had to take my chances."

The strike forced a change in travel plans for two medical teams of Cuban refugees and other Latin Americans going to South Viet Nam.

The teams, recruited by the International Rescue Committee, plan to spend 18 months helping to provide medical services in refugee areas in the Southeast Asia nation.

They had been scheduled to leave today aboard a Northwest Orient Airlines plane, one of the carriers hit by the strike.

The eight doctors and nurses switched to American Airlines for a flight to San Francisco this evening. There they will board a Pan American World Airways flight to Hong Kong and a connecting Air Viet Nam flight to Saigon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm J. Binter, of Milwaukee, flew into Kennedy Airport in New York from Luxembourg Friday, unaware of the strike.

"We spent five weeks in Europe and everything was on time," said Binter, a restaurateur. "As soon as we got to America everything stopped dead."

Binter said he was trying to arrange an alternate flight to Milwaukee, and was even looking into bus schedules. Then he lamented that they had not taken a ship from Hamburg, Germany, due in New York on Sunday. Aboard the ship is the new car they purchased abroad.

"We could have gotten into our new car and driven home," he said.

Christian Jensen, a school psychologist from Aalborg, Denmark, arrived at Kennedy Airport on a flight from Copenhagen under the "Visit U.S.A." program—and found himself stranded.

"In Denmark, we just had a pilots' strike," he said. "I think now there should be enough of this."

The strike presented a special problem for Spec. 5 Douglas Brian, with the Army Transportation Corps at Ft. Wainwright, Alaska. Brian, ending a 30-day furlough, is due back on duty July 12, but flights to Fairbanks, Alaska, are affected by the machinists walkout.

Brian's father said he would telephone his son's commanding officer to see how he could return to his post.

Sales Tax Vote

GARYVILLE, La. (AP) — A parish election set for July 16 on a proposed 1 per cent sales tax has been cancelled, a member of the St. John Parish Police Jury said Friday.

Kit Troclair said no new date was set. The jury gave no official reason for the cancellation. The proposed tax would have boosted the total sales tax in the parish to 4 per cent, with the additional income going into the parish general fund.

Discuss Guard For Marchers

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—State Police Supt. Thomas Burbank met Friday with Franklinton officials to determine if more troopers will be assigned to the march on Franklinton, a state police official reported here.

Col. Ben Ragusa said no decision has been reached between Burbank and Franklinton officials.

A. Z. Young, president of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, said the group intends to march to the Franklinton Courthouse Sunday in a voter registration drive.

Young said he wired Gov. John McKeithen the group will march on the State Capitol, Baton Rouge, if any incidents occur on the weekend march to Franklinton.

Franklinton officials asked state police assistance in beefing up the police force for league marchers.

Strangled With Wire

Youth Suspected Of Killing Girl

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Michelle Hoyer, 6, was found strangled by a piece of wire in an orange grove. And police said a boy, 14, told them Friday: "I didn't know her, and I don't know why I did it."

The girl's body was found at midnight Thursday, two hours after she and a neighbor boy, 6, had wandered from Michelle's mother at a Little League baseball game.

When the boy returned alone, Mrs. Max G. Hoyer notified authorities. About 200 others at the ball game took part in the search.

A strip of amplifying wire was tied tightly around the girl's neck and a tree nearby. Pieces of stolen loud speaker equipment, candy bars and photographs were scattered nearby.

The pretty, brown haired girl was fully clothed.

Detective C. F. Rainbolt said one of the photos had been shown to Mark Hulse, 6, and he identified an older boy in the picture as a teen-ager who had given him a ride on his bicycle near the ball park.

After letting him off at the park, Mark said, the boy said he was going to give the Hoyer girl a ride. Rainbolt said other residents of the area identified the boy in the picture, and he was arrested at his home.

The husky youngster was taken to police headquarters, but questioning was delayed until a juvenile probation officer, a psychiatrist and a deputy county attorney arrived. The probation officer did the questioning. Later the boy was taken to

Geneva Necessary

France, Britain Agree On Peace

LONDON (UPI)—Britain and France Friday announced agreement on the belief that a settlement of the Viet Nam war could only be reached through the 1954 Geneva agreements.

An official communique, released after three days of wide-ranging talks between French Premier Georges Pompidou and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, dealt with Viet Nam, the Common Market, East-West relations and a channel tunnel linking the two countries.

On Viet Nam, the two leaders agreed that a settlement of the grave situation in Southeast Asia can only be reached through negotiations on the basis of the independence of Viet Nam and non-interference in its internal affairs in conformity with the 1954 Geneva accords.

The 1954 Geneva Pact ended French colonial rule in Indochina and set up the independent states of Laos, Cambodia and North and South Viet Nam which were to be reunited later through national elections.

But earlier, Pompidou told newsmen France saw no point in trying to reconvene the Geneva conference because of the current political and military atmosphere.

The three-day conference thawed the chill between Britain and France but brought Britain no nearer Common Market Membership. They also reconfirmed their decision in principle to build a

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Wilford Eilerts of Alexandria, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Edward LeRay of DeRidder.

Majestic arrangements of white gladioli, Fuji chrysanthemums and stock decorated the altar against a background of softly glowing candles in arched candelabra and jade foliage trees. Cathedral candles with white chrysanthemums and white bows marked the pews.

Mrs. Helen DeVille of Alexandria, organist, rendered the nuptial music. Louis Blankenbaker of DeRidder was soloist.

Candlelighters were Misses Cynthia and Elizabeth Eilerts of Wichita, Kansas, and Kim Charlynn and Susan Hope Robinson of Winnsboro, nieces of the bride. They were gownned in floor length nite lite with cap sleeves and empire line sashes. They wore wristlet corsages of gold carnations.

Daniel K. Lewis of New Orleans served as best man. Groomsman were L. Richard D. Eilerts, Wichita, Kansas, brother of the bride; James Robinson, Monroe; and Dr. Robert Welborn of Lake Charles.

Serving as ushers were Charles R. Robinson of Winnsboro, Donald C. McNaught, Houston, Texas, and George Jouban of DeRidder. Kevin McNaught of Houston served his uncle as ringbearer.

Dear Abby

Sounds As If The Guy Is Not Ready To Buy

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a very attractive widow, 62 years old but she looks much younger. She met a 60-year-old bachelor, and they hit it off like a couple of teenagers. He's a real sport and a big spender. He has told all their mutual friends she's the best thing that's happened to him in years, he adores her, blah, blah, blah.

They have vacationed together, he took her to the Derby, and now he's talking about a trip to Europe. Abby, mom is going out of her mind waiting for this man to ask her to marry him. They seem so perfect for each other. She doesn't even look at anyone else, and as far as she knows, he doesn't either. What on earth is he waiting for? It's been nearly two years now. How can mom build a fire under this man? She'll do anything.

HER DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: Tell your mom not to build any fires under her reluctant Lothario or she's likely to see the romance go up in smoke. He sounds like the kind of sport who would rather rent than buy.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 22-year-old college girl who has to be continually coaxed and begged to help her mother now and then with an evening meal, to clear off the table, help with the dishes, make her own bed, hang up her clothes, to do her own ironing? When she was away at college, she lived at the dorm and shipped her laundry home for her mother to do and ship back.

During the summer she is not punching a time clock as so many girls do to help pay for her college expenses. Instead she is out having a good time and sleeping late. Ever since she was a young girl she has expected me to be her slave. Why?

HER MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Because somewhere along the line she was given the impression that she could get away with it. And apparently she was right.

DEAR ABBY: A very attractive fortyish woman is posing quite a problem among the husbands at our country club. She dances the first dance with her husband, and then he goes into the bar where he spends the remainder of the evening, and she goes around asking the other husbands to dance with her.

This leaves our wives sitting and seething. How does a man handle this situation without being rude to the woman or to his wife?

NO GIGOLO
DEAR NO: It isn't necessary to be rude to either. Tell the lone woman that you are "sitting it out" with your frau, but you'd be glad to waltz her over to her husband.

Hints From Heloise

Overseas Packing Can Be Served As Dessert Later

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:
I hope this will help other people who want to mail cookies to servicemen:

Make an angel food cake and cut it in three layers. Then pack cookies (that have been wrapped in plastic wrap) between the layers, after the box has been lined in foil.

I used this method and my son said the cookies arrived overseas in excellent condition. He said, "We even ate the packing!"

ice, get busy and send them their favorite goodies this very week ... they are our loves, you know.

Another good hint is to enclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope inside each letter. Be surprised how quickly you will get an answer back! Saves them the trouble of trying to "borrow" a stamp or envelope, because men just don't seem to keep those things in stock.

Rose S.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
I found what to do with all the time you've been saving us gals. I went back to work full time.

Mrs. Jeanne Miller

Dear Heloise:
When the family wants French toast for breakfast, and the bread is too fresh, just put it in the toaster for a short time (do not brown). Then cool the bread and make your French toast with the slightly dried-out bread. I tried this, and my husband said it was the best I had ever made.

Nelle

Dear Heloise:
For summer travel with children, I use a piece of masonite (of a convenient size) to place on their laps when the children want to use play-dough, write, or color.

I sure would appreciate any ideas for those day-after-day trips in the car with children.

Shotgunning Youths Kill Two Negroes

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Three carloads of white youngsters moved through Sacramento's skid row. Shotgun blasts echoed off crumbling walls and two Negro men lay dead. Sixteen suspects were arrested.

These are the basic facts behind a dual slaying in California's capital city three nights ago. Friday, they remained virtually the only facts verified by police as city officials sealed the case in secrecy.

Behind the secrecy is new police policy, spurred by recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions. City officials say that from now on they'll do whatever they can to avoid publicizing crimes before suspects are brought to trial.

"The Supreme Court has told us what to do and we're doing it," said Police Chief Joseph Rooney. "We're keeping all the information we have to ourselves until the trial. And that's final."

Aside from releasing the names, ages and home addresses of the suspects, police have remained silent.

Rooney and Deputy Dist. Atty. Robert Puglia, assigned to prosecute the suspects, have insisted the crime was not racially motivated. But they haven't given the slightest hint about possible alternative motives.

Police even have refused to release photographs of the suspects taken when they were booked.

"I think even mug shots could be prejudicial," said Puglia.

One person, applauding the new policy is Kenneth Wells, the county public defender and the man assigned to defend two of the slaying suspects.

"In the usual criminal case,

Notify LBJ For Medicare

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A Medicare patient had little doubt here this week that the White House was picking up the bill. The elderly woman arrived at a local hospital as an emergency case and was asked who should be notified.

Hospital attendants said she replied, "Dr. X and Mr. Johnson." "We know Dr. X," the attendant replied, "but who is Mr. Johnson?"

"Mr. L. B. Johnson," the woman answered. "He's the man who takes care of the Medicare bill."

USL Reports Honor Students

LAFAYETTE (Special) — Several students from the Monroe area have been named to the Dean's honor list at the University of Southwestern Louisiana for the spring semester.

They are Linda Sheila Collet LaSalle Parish; Richard Ray Storms, Lincoln Parish; Rosemary Jefferies, Morehouse Parish; Gary McClain Gannaway, Donn Maulsby Kurtz II and Judith Gail Searey, Ouachita Parish; Jacqueline Ann Hodgson and Edwin Gustav Preis Jr., Tensas Parish; and Sheryl Lynn Mixon, Winn Parish.

publicity can only hurt the defendant," said Wells.

Drying up of the official sources hasn't stopped Sacramento's two daily newspapers from attempting to uncover facts in the case. Both have published stories based on interviews with suspects' relatives, in some cases unnamed.

indicating the slayings may have been motivated by an earlier brawl and a desire for revenge.

LBJ Fought Long With Bomb Problem

(EDITOR'S NOTE: How and when did President Johnson arrive at his decision to bomb oil depots at Hanoi and Haiphong? Johnson's decision-making process sometimes are long and tortuous. In the following dispatch, UPI White House Correspondent Merriman Smith describes how this decision came about.)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson's order to bomb the North Vietnamese oil dumps near Hanoi and Haiphong seemed a dramatic decision to most—but not to the President and his advisers.

U.S. Probes Doctor Owned Businesses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trouble shaped up Friday for any doctors reaping profits from ownership in pharmacies, drug firms, repackaging companies and other businesses used by their patients.

"We're going to expand on the Justice Department action," promise Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

The Justice Department Thursday accused the 4,500-member American College of Pathologists of forcing the nation's sick to pay excessive prices for services in laboratories almost entirely owned by the physicians themselves.

The government's week-old Medicare program, rising medical costs and the drug industry all may be involved in coming congressional hearings.

Later this summer, Hart will begin hearings on legislation he has introduced to prohibit doctors from profiting from items they prescribe for their patients. In such cases, Hart said, the patients were "captive consumers."

According to Hart, the "worst situation" involves doctors who own drug repackaging firms. The physician buys his wholesale quantities of generic drugs and packages them under a trade name, he said.

"Then the doctor will prescribe his own drug which the druggist is required to give the patient," Hart said.

Some doctors share ownership of pharmacies, many of them in medical buildings, and often advised patients to fill their prescriptions there, the senator added.

Hart said there were some cases of ophthalmologists selling eyeglasses they prescribe instead of sending patients to an optometrist. "In most of these situations, the patients paid higher prices than necessary," he said.

The Justice Department antitrust suit said the pathologists fixed prices at artificially high levels at their laboratories and levels at their laboratories and boycotted other firms conducting blood and urine tests that were "not owned and operated solely for the profit of pathologists."

Answering a charge of "harassment" because of the AMA's critical stand on Medicare, a department official said the pathologists were well aware of the year old investigation that led to the lawsuit.

"They were forced to give us their records on this matter last year so it couldn't be much of a surprise," he said.

After all efforts at negotiations with the Communists failed, Johnson decided it was time to press the dagger point a little deeper, but stop short of stabbing the enemy to death.

It was an agonizing decision. Johnson knew there would be an uproar from the "doves" at home. He could foresee the reaction in Moscow and Peking. He knew the raids would be less than popular in Britain and France.

But he believed that time would contribute to greater understanding of the U.S. purpose, especially at home.

Chatting with an associate one afternoon last spring, Johnson used a cowboy's analogy to describe what the United States must do. He said in effect:

"You're in a fight with this fellow and your knife is right at his belly. You don't want to stab him to death if you can avoid it, but you want him to hurt a little. So, you put pressure behind the point a little at a time until he gets the idea."

Plans for the first raids were made many weeks ago. Photographic reconnaissance planes constantly examined the Haiphong harbor because the United States did not want to bomb the oil storage areas while they contained any Russian ships.

Planners saw to it that only clearly defined military facilities—no population centers—were included in the list of targets.

Before the first raids were staged June 29, Johnson spent hundreds of hours discussing the subject from every possible angle.

At such times, the President often acts like a caged animal, walking around and talking constantly about the problem.

He seems to think better while physically active and during this time of decision he was in and out of the White House pool many times. He went for long walks on the White House grounds.

When the first raids came off with surprisingly light U.S. losses, Johnson skyrocketed into an euphoric state. Long-stalled travel plans were activated, calling for speeches in Omaha and Des Moines and a July 4 holiday at the Texas ranch.

In the speeches, his line of reasoning was critics he damned—the United States would push ahead. He rejected the idea that the war was a civil disturbance, insisting that it was instead an invasion of South Viet Nam by North Viet Nam.

"America's purpose is to convince North Viet Nam that this kind of aggression is too costly, that this kind of power cannot succeed," he said in Omaha.

"The air attacks on military targets in North Viet Nam have imposed—and will continue to impose—a growing burden and a high price on those who wage war against the freedom of their neighbors."

He was even tougher in Des Moines. "As long as the Communist leaders in North Viet Nam insist on waging war by crossing the boundaries of the South Viet Nam and assassinating human beings; as long as they spurn any interest in

Judge Enjoins MoPac Strike

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge James H. Meredith issued a temporary injunction Friday night restraining the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks from striking the Missouri Pacific Lines.

The union had threatened to strike in support of 13 vehicle clerks employed at the railroad's pickup and delivery service in Little Rock and North Little Rock, Ark., after MoPac announced plans to discontinue the service. It was abolished Tuesday.

Meredith ordered the railroad and union to expedite proceedings pending before the National Mediation Board and the National Railroad Board of Adjustment. The judge ordered both sides to report back to him if no agreement is reached within 30 days.

Grocer Makes Innocent Plea For Assault

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—White grocer Arthur Marks pleaded not guilty Friday to striking a 10-year-old Negro boy in an incident which touched off a Negro riot last month.

Judge Harry C. Fischer set trial for Aug. 3 and promised Marks he could have police protection until then.

Marks did not appear in the courtroom. He sought to have the charges quashed through an attorney, however, and Fischer refused to do so.

The judge also refused to give Marks a change of venue. At the attorney's request, Fischer said "every effort will be made to provide protection" for Marks and his supermarket in the Negro section of town. But he added, "the city cannot be held financially responsible" for any damages that might occur.

Marks was accused of assault and battery on the boy on June 22. That night, a crowd of nearly 500 angry Negroes gathered at the store and clashed with police.

More than two dozen Negroes were arrested in the riot and there was rock and bottle throwing during the next two days.

negotiations we must use our power to resist their aggression, and use our power to try to change their minds."

Johnson said the Communists knew they could not defeat U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, and were hoping American public opinion would force a withdrawal.

If he could have talked that night of June 29 with the Hanoi leaders, Johnson told the Des Moines audience he would have said:

"It is easy to misread the polls. It is easy to misunderstand the meaning of a debate in a democratic society where we encourage difference of opinion and dissidence, discussion. It is easy to misjudge the true nature of a diverse nation. It is easy to mistake our differences for weaknesses."

While the bombings continued, Johnson rested at his ranch and viewed the war through a steady stream of combat intelligence reports. He appeared committed to this chosen course—pressing the dagger point a little more each day without stabbing the fellow to death.

Surveyor I Life Ending, Battery Heats

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The life of Surveyor I, the amazingly successful photographic spacecraft on the moon, is ending.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientists gave some funeral details Friday after they discovered that Surveyor's battery is overheating, the temperature rising about three degrees an hour. It's probably due to a short circuit.

Death of the spacecraft—actually its inability to continue communication with earth—may come within hours, the experts said but they added: "It's done its job so well, that it almost doesn't matter."

Engineers instructed personnel at the Canberra, Australia, tracking station by telephone on commands to send to Surveyor in an effort to take a few more photographs before the battery fails. Such pictures, if any, will be received at Canberra.

They'll also try to fire three small rocket engines on the spacecraft, hoping the thrust will dig small holes in the moon's surface and the cameras will catch under-surface pictures.

Surveyor soft-landed on the moon June 1. It transmitted more than 10,000 pictures to earth before going silent about three weeks ago at the start of the two-week lunar night when the temperature plunges to 260 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

Last Wednesday, after days of trying, Surveyor came alive. It received commands and answered them and then Thursday it snapped 24 more pictures which were received at the Goldstone, Calif., tracking station.

Further picture taking and other experiments had been planned for next week.

Wholesale Price 2 Sentenced For Beating Of Child

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wholesale prices rose two-tenths of 1 per cent during the week that ended July 5, the Labor Department reported Friday.

An increase in farm product prices more than offset a decline in processed food prices. Industrial commodities averaged unchanged.

The general increase pushed the wholesale price index to 105.9 of the 1957-59 average, compared to 105.7 per cent during the previous week and 105.5 per cent in May. The June index has not yet been released.

At 105.7 per cent, the index for farm products was 1.5 per cent above a week earlier. Processed foods declined two-tenths of 1 per cent to 110.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average. Industrial commodities held steady at 104.9 per cent.

Between February and May, wholesale prices were virtually unchanged as declines in farm products and processed foods offset increases in a wide range of industrial commodities.

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — A Alexandria man was sentenced to three months in the Rapides Parish jail and his wife was sentenced to six months after the couple was found guilty Friday of beating one of their four children.

Judge George M. Foote sentenced Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Reed in city court.

The Reeds were arrested June 9 on a charge of beating their 21-month-old daughter, Margaret Ann. Dr. Malcolm Denley, a pediatrician, testified. His investigation revealed the child had a broken arm and multiple bruises over her entire body. The couple had brought the child to the doctor for treatment of an unrelated illness.

Dr. Denley notified the district attorney of the case.

The Reeds testified they had whipped the child in an attempt to get her to eat.

How To Keep Well

By Theodore Van Dellen

SUNTAN FAD

Some persons never tan (heliophobes), they redden, blister, and burn. This group is sensitive to the rays of the sun and should accept this fact. The majority are the Nordic type with smooth, soft, light skin; they have blue eyes, naturally blond hair, and a deficient supply of the pigment needed for tanning.

Some can now achieve a light brown without burning by utilizing a psoralen—a pigment stimulating drug. These products are tricky and should never be used unless prescribed by the physician. The psoralens encourage the dermis to retain more pigment than normal, protecting against light sensitivity, and promoting a tan. A good sunscreen ointment also helps. Anyone going on a vacation or fishing trip should try to get a tan first and not take a chance on burning after reaching the holiday site.

If you have a question you want answered write or call "Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you each Saturday in this column.

What is the address of the singing group, The Lettermen? They sang a concert on the Northeast campus last fall.

The Northeast Louisiana State College organization which sponsored the local appearance of the group contacted them through the William Morris Agency, Inc., 1740 Broadway, New York, 19, New York.

What is being done about the odors and stains that are plaguing the southside in the City of Monroe?

The problem mentioned here has been the subject already of two inquiries — one by the Gulf South Research Institute, financed by the City of Monroe, the other by the State Health Department, at the request of the Ouachita Police Jury. Results of the studies, however, have been inconclusive, and the causes cited of the odor and stains have not seemed to constitute the full answer. Apparently the situation will be again the subject of an inquiry, this time by a federal agency, yet to be named. Only this week representatives of the City of Monroe, the police jury, nearby industry and a community group — the Southside Air Pollution Committee — met to take a new measure of the problem. The consensus was that the problem be given Fifth District U.S. Rep. Otto E. Passman for channeling to a suitable federal research agency. Submission to federal officials, however, must be approved yet by the police jury, since the matter was turned over earlier to its conservation committee.

What does the letter "x" on Louisiana license plates indicate? Also, what letters go with which areas?

License plates bear the same letter as the state police trooper district in which they are issued. The "x" plates are issued to those who order their plates by mail directly from Baton Rouge. Other license designations used by the Louisiana Revenue Department are: A—Baton Rouge area; B—New Orleans; C—New Iberia; D—Lake Charles; E—Alexandria; F—Natchitoches; G—Monroe; H—Shreveport; I—Leesville; J—Lafayette; K—Opelousas; L—Hammond; M—Covington; N—Bogalusa; O—Thibodaux; P—Houma; Q—Crowley; R—Jennings.

In last Saturday's Miss Louisiana Parade, I noticed that an El Karubah marching group led the parade. Was this a local unit, and if so, why aren't they seen in more parades in the area?

This unit was the local Drum and Bugle Corps from the El Karubah Temple, Shreveport. They participate in parades only when invited, and when the parades do not conflict with the daily job of the Masons who are members.

There has been some talk recently about the Louisiana Mayors' Association. Of whom does this organization consist? Where does it get its operating funds to use for such things as meetings, officials' salaries and advertisements?

Officials know of no such organization as the Louisiana Mayors' Association, but it is assumed that the questioner is referring to the Louisiana Municipal Association. If this is the case, then it is reported that operating expenses are derived from dues assessed the member municipalities, which are assigned on the basis of population. Dues paid by the City of Monroe, for example, amount to approximately $1,000 a year. Actually, the association's membership is made up of municipalities rather than individuals, though, of course, the municipalities are represented by their elected officials. The association's affairs are administered by a board elected each year. Its top officers are mayors. Membership in the association is voluntary, but as a matter of practice, virtually every municipality in the state does belong.

When is the I-20 bridge section, which is closed from Hall Street to Catalpa Street, to be opened? It seems it would help a lot to open that section rather than having to get off I-20 for only one block and then get back on again at Hall Street. Highway officials told us the section will be open Oct. 1, all the way to the interchange near Nuland Road. At present, there is no way that traffic on the Hall Street exit can turn right, headed south. Only left turns toward the north, or continuations east on Layton are allowed.

I understand that city bus drivers (in Monroe) are permitted to stop along their routes for drinks, etc., but not over five minutes, give or take. Is this correct? If so, what arrangements are made for meals since they do not have relief drivers?

City officials report that bus drivers are permitted five minute refreshment stops along their routes. As to lunch, no specific arrangements are made, but several minutes "10 or so" — often are accumulated by the time route's end is reached and drivers may use this time for eating, officials say. They add that day drivers' shifts end at 2 p.m. — not too late for a full lunch after snacks earlier. Other minutes are available during refueling stops.

Who writes the laws for the registrar of voters of Ouachita parish? By this I mean the laws regulating the voter requirements?

All laws governing the registration of a person in Louisiana have been compiled in the Legislative committee of the registrars' association, and Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr., and Attorney General Jack P. F. Gremlion. These regulations are based on laws written and approved by the Legislature — in its act setting up the Permanent Registration Statute. It might be pointed out that those parishes with permanent registration, and Ouachita Parish was one of the first to adopt this type, have much stricter regulations than those who operated under the every-four-year registration. Ouachita instituted the permanent registration in the early 1950's with much success.

Is it true that the Food and Drug Administration is investigating the drug being used by Dr. Chavarria in Mexico for the treatment of arthritis? If so, what progress has been made and when will the general public be given the information?

The information which we have is that the government, Food and Drug Administration, is investigating the drug and the methods used. So is the medical profession. The progress, et cetera, will probably not be made public until the investigation is complete.

How long after he is 65 does a man have to wait before he can draw his social security check?

The persons approaching retirement is urged by social security workers to make application prior to his retirement date, so that the "red tape" can be cleared up and the payments begin as soon as he is eligible. It would be wise for persons reaching this age to check with the offices well before he retires. By doing this there may be no delay in the checks being received. The checks, by the way, are mailed as quickly as possible, after the necessary bookkeeping, etc., has been done.

It is my understanding that the little piece of land where Spaine, Ridge Ave., and Highway 80 (Cypress) come together, facing Thomas Road, belongs to the City of West Monroe. There is a sign which says "no parking" on the land. If this is so, why does the city permit cars, trucks and equipment to be parked all over it?

Records show the property belongs to private citizens.

Auto Owned By Stalin To Be Displayed Here

The Greater Downtown Monroe Merchant's Association will sponsor an exhibit Monday and Tuesday of an automobile once owned by former Russian Premier Joseph Stalin.

The car, a Russian Zis, completely hand made at Zavod Imeni Stalingrad, was given in 1951 to Mao Tse-Tung, head of the Chinese Communist regime, at a May-Day rally in Moscow, to cement communist relations.

Mao Tse-Tung sent the car to Korea during the Korean war, where it was captured by United States and South Korean government troops. When captured, the Chinese communist chauffeur was killed and a Chinese general who was captured demanded diplomatic immunity and was released by the South Korean government.

"The car has turned into a showpiece for us," said its owner, Jack Broadbuss of Chicago, Ill.

Broadbuss said he bought the car from the widow of Gen. Walton Walker, commander of the Eighth Army in South Korea.

"Syngman Rhee, the president of South Korea presented the car at a special celebration in honor of Gen. Walker to his widow," the owner said.

Two men will remain with the display during its two days in Monroe, mostly to distribute literature.

erature concerning the exhibit, said Broadbuss.

The display will be on De-Siard Street from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., in front of The Palace. No tickets will be sold, and any donations which are given, said Broadbuss, will go to the United Givers Fund for Ouachita Parish.

"This is the most controversial car ever built by the Russian government," he said. In 1950 the Russians wanted to build a special car for Stalin and they selected four American automobiles — Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet and Packard — from which the car was modeled.

"The Russian Zis car weighs 7,500 pounds and cost $87,000. Its speed is 185 kilometers per hour (about 116 m.p.h.) and the motor is a modified Packard with a much larger bore and stroke than the American Packard.

The body resembles a Packard, also, but is much larger than an American model. The tires are apparently replicas of American Goodyears, but were manufactured in Russia.

"The car was built for eight passengers and the passengers in the rear seat have complete control of all windows and doors and can even isolate themselves from the driver with a bullet-proof driving shield."

Only 15 Zis cars a year are produced by 154 men, Broadbuss said.

The car, for two years, was featured attraction at Ripley's Believe It or Not Museum in New York, said the businessman.

The vehicle, on nationwide tour, is painted red.

"It was black until the Chinese Communists got it," said Broadbuss, "and they painted it red."

Medicare Hospital List In Area Up From 2 To 7

The number of hospitals participating under Medicare in Northeast Louisiana has grown from two to seven during the past week, J. Dodd Brooks, district manager of the Monroe district of the U. S. Social Security Administration, said Friday.

The hospitals listed as participating were:

Wadlington Clinic at Farmerville; East Carol Parish Hospital at Lake Providence; Madison Parish Hospital at Tallulah; Caldwell Hospital at Columbia; E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital at Monroe; Roger's Clinic at Winnsboro and Columbia Heights Hospital at Columbia.

Brooks said an additional 10 hospitals in this district have applied and their applications are being processed.

"As these pending applications are cleared," he said, "we are hopeful that the benefits under Medicare can be provided for all those eligible in our district."

"The Medicare program in general has gotten off to a smooth start."

The hospitals that are participating now have not reported any unusual problems, he said. Admittances are said to be about normal in most instances.

Brooks reminded those who are eligible that the participating hospitals must have their Health Insurance Card in order to collect from Blue Cross.

King Claims Officials Renege On Promises

GRENADA, Miss. (UPI)—touching off a riot June 22 Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. charged Grenada officials Friday with reneging on promises they made to the Mississippi "freedom" marchers.

King's statement was released through his Atlanta office, which also disclosed that Hosea Williams, one of King's top aides, had been assigned here. King is in Chicago.

He accused city officials of going "back on every promise made to the march leaders," and said his staff members working here have been harassed, beaten and jailed.

About 100 Negro demonstrators attempted a march on the county courthouse Thursday night, but were halted by police. Nearly half of them were taken into custody on charges of obstructing traffic when they dropped to the street and ignored police orders to disperse.

In another racial development at Pompano Beach, Fla., a white grocer accused of striking a Negro boy and King pointed out that Grenada officials granted Negroes many concessions while the marchers were in the city, including extension of voter registration hours, desegregation of courthouse facilities, and police protection.

But King charged that things quickly changed when the marchers left town.

"After three days the white officials had gone back on every promise made to the march leaders," King said, beating and jailing our staff, as well as the local Negroes, much worse than they had before the marchers had visited Grenada."

Constitution, Journal

Strike In Atlanta
Silences Papers

ATLANTA (UPI) — Friday editions of the morning Atlanta Constitution and the evening Atlanta Journal were not printed because of a wildcat strike by members of the International Typographical Union, who held a continuous "chapel meeting" in the newspapers' composing room.

William Ray, executive editor of the Constitution and vice-president of Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., said the ITU members were defying an order from their national president, Elmer Brown, to return to work. He said a representative of the national union was en route to Atlanta to attempt to settle the dispute.

ANI management said it contemplated no move to forcibly evict the idle typesetters or to bring in new employees.

Atlanta television and radio stations planned expanded newscasts throughout the day Friday, and a paper in nearby Marietta, the daily Journal, sent 2,500 extra copies into the Atlanta area. The Atlanta Daily World, a Negro newspaper, said it planned no expanded circulation for the present. Local ITU chapel chairman A. M. Gann said the more than 200 composing room employees would not go back to work until a bargain had been struck with management.

But Ray said there would be no negotiations until the typesetters go back to work. "As long as they are engaging in an illegal work stoppage, we are in no way able to sit down and have any fair bargaining on either side," he said.

Ray said he was hopeful that the papers today could be printed, but said the Sunday papers, part of which must be made up early, have already been curtailed. He added that certain parts of the Sunday paper had already been printed, such as the comics, the magazine and some inside feature pages, and would be distributed on Sunday even if the employees have not gone back to work.

Meanwhile, the Constitution editorial staff continued to prepare copy for this morning's paper, just in case.

The ITU members have charged harassment by composing room foreman J. B. Perry.

A union statement Friday said, "The present labor dispute is brought about by harassment by the foreman. Over a period of time, this harassment has been aimed at selected members of the ANI chapter." The statement said a committee had been appointed to carry the grievances to management.

Gann said the work stoppage, which began Thursday afternoon at 3:30 p.m., was spontaneous. Many of the union members remained in the composing room over night.

Gann said the "harassment" by Perry mostly consisted of letters and phone calls to certain employees, threatening to dismiss them. He also said some employees, who attended a chapel meeting last week while they were scheduled to work, received salary cuts for the time they were gone, while others received full salary.

"We've asked Perry to settle this thing three times and he gave no answer," Gann said. "I figure we struck out."

Ray defended Perry.
